Dear Glynis,

I have been preparing the list of medical and sentimental items, as Judge Chupp requested, but I delayed finalizing it until receiving the Court's written order to ensure accuracy. However, the only order I have received is the version you submitted—bearing a $1,000 bond instead of the $100,000 amount Judge Chupp mentioned on the record, and including restrictions on my First Amendment rights that he explicitly said he would not impose. I have not received any order signed by the Court that reflects what was actually stated during the hearing.

Because the written TRO appears inconsistent with the oral rulings, I am filing a motion to obtain the certified hearing transcript so the record is clear.

In the meantime, I have continued preparing the item list as directed by the Court. I want to ensure these are properly identified and preserved before any potential disposal or “cleaning,” particularly since Plaintiffs’ position on contamination has now shifted. During the hearing, Plaintiffs represented that my belongings were contaminated and required remediation. However, your recent correspondence states that no testing was ever performed, and further asserts that I “refused cleaning”—which is inaccurate.

Below is my preliminary list for coordination and preservation purposes. The page numbers are based on your filings from last week with photos taken by those who have my belongings.

Medical and Assistive Equipment

- Refrigerated medication in fridge door (two vials)
- Frozen prescription eye drops made from autologous serum
- Restasis eye drops; dog medication (p.148)
- Back brace (p.148)
- Red light therapy device (p.148)
- Moon Pod and weighted blanket (p.149)

- Bedside table and pill organizer (p.150)
- Theragun, resistance bands, custom neck brace (p.169–176)
- Heated blanket with cord/plug (p.170)
- Lumbar roll pillows and U-shaped pillow (p.177)
- Leg compressed-air therapy device (p.177–178)
- Small heater (p.178)
- Desk cycle and tilting desk table (p.178)
- Hand warmers and dog vitamins (p.180)

Sentimental and Personal Items

- Art and photos from refrigerator (p.113)
- Ceramic seahorse painted by my child (p.134)
- Signed Jay Strongwater vase (p.134)
- Mother's Day art (p.147–148)
- Art and craft supplies (p.148)
- Boxes containing neon name signs and Bearaby weighted blankets
- Guitar and case (p.162, 170)
- "Waitress" shadowbox with headshot (p.247)

Items Needed Soon

- Dog crates and beds (p.162)
- Tea kettle (p.134)
- iPad mini (p.177)

Practical and Logistical Notes

- AT&T Internet equipment: Please set aside so I can return it promptly.
- TV and installation: The large bedroom TV was professionally installed by Best

Buy's Geek Squad. They can uninstall and reinstall it but cannot transport it, which is why I retained the original box.

- Refrigerator contents: Prescription medications, frozen serum eye drops, and high-value foods (e.g., Whole Foods steaks) were inside. If not immediately refrigerated or frozen, they are likely spoiled.
- Insurance: Please confirm the insurance coverage for items in possession of Reign Restoration or any other vendors.

I have also begun itemizing ongoing displacement-related expenses (food, transportation, lodging, utilities) and will provide documentation shortly.

Given the inconsistencies between the Court's oral statements and the written TRO, as well as the conflicting representations regarding contamination, I ask that you confirm in writing that all of my belongings remain preserved and unaltered—that no cleaning, treatment, or disposal has occurred pending further court clarification.

Thank you for confirming receipt and providing the current status of my property and any applicable insurance arrangements.

Sincerely,

Katie Copeland
